T. NOBLE JARRELL HOUSE; PART OF JACKSON'S HARDSHIP
GOLDSBORO
PRIVATE

The Jarrell House is located on Maryland Route 313, about two miles south of Goldsboro. As with many houses in the county, this building indicates several periods of growth. The oldest part, dating to c.1800, is a two-bay long, two-story section, notable for its brick gable end. In the mid 19th century a two-bay, one-story section was added to the _____ end of the main block.

The Jarrell House property, as well as two other nearby farms, were erected on what was the original 18th century (?) Jackson's Hardship land tract.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The T. Noble Jarrell house is located on the east side of Maryland Route 313, approximately two miles south of Goldsboro. It is a two section frame structure.

The main section of the house is two storys with a side entrance plan with 2/2 pane sash windows with black shutters. The exterior is covered with a gray siding and there is a gable roof with a brick chimney stack in the south end.

A one story section exists on the north end of this main section. The north gable wall is from an earlier structure and is of common bond brick. It has two small windows in the gable and a square chimney stack. The west facade has a doorway and a window and to the east is a kitchen wing.

The current tenant states that there is no remaining interior trim.

In all likelihood the brick gable dates from the same period as the one story section. Both sections have had new siding, sash, doors, and shutters installed so taht it is difficult to distinguish the periods from the exterior only.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The building is of interest in this survey of historic buildings in Caroline County as it represents a form of building popular in the early 19th century throughout the Eastern Shore. It possibly is the result of three periods of building illustrating the financial growth and prosperity of a family of that/those period (s). It is also of special interest because of the use of a complete brick gable of which few exist in Caroline.
